

Gulley Park near Ft. Ancient has a newly constructed trail looping through a mature mixed hardwood forest. The woods is a favorite of many species of local woodpeckers, as well as deer, squirrels and raccoons and other small mammals. The nut-bearing trees produce good crops of acorns, hickory nuts and beechnuts which are food staples for many birds and animals. Interpretive signs along the 1.65-mile trail loop provide information about the historical usage of the land as well as plant and animal species living in the park today. Click here to see more trail photo's in our park photo library.

