

March Wildflowers in Bloom

Any wildflower enthusiasts wanting to see a fabulous display of early spring blooms should take a stroll through the Caesar Creek Nature Preserve on Corwin Road adjacent to Hisey Park. Take the low trail at the left fork along the creek. The attached pictures were taken there Tuesday, March 24. These flowers won't last too long, so see them while you can. This time of year the scene changes every few days. And remember, preserve rules require hikers to remain on the walking trails. And no picking!

Bloodroot

Blue Hepatica

Blue Hepaticas

False Rue Anemone

Hepatica

Purple Cress

Salt 'n' Pepper (Harbinger of Spring)

Spring Beauty

White Hepatica

White Hepaticas